Highlights:

Prof. Ajay Kushwaha delivered a compelling keynote address at IRMPPT2K24 and guided participants through the technical session on “Innovative Research Methodologies.” His insights on new approaches to research sparked thoughtful discussions among attendees.

Mr. Jayanna Belavadi, the resource person for the second technical session, shared highly informative and practical strategies on “Plagiarism Prevention Techniques.” His session was beneficial, offering attendees actionable methods to maintain academic integrity in their work.

Dr. Sawmiya Rani led the third technical session on “AI Tools for Scientific Writing and Publishing,” where she introduced advanced tools that are transforming the landscape of academic writing and publication.

Dr. Abha Khandelwal, the founder of the Association of All Computer Science Teachers (AACST), addressed the participants online, in which she lauded the workshop’s tremendous success and the hard work of the organizing team. She also highlighted key points from the sessions, appreciating the emphasis on innovation in research, the importance of plagiarism prevention, and the role of AI in modern academic writing. Her words motivated the attendees, reinforcing the impact of these discussions in shaping future research practices.

A program was conducted by Asst. Prof. Shital Bora and vote of thanks was proposed by Asst. Prof. Rajeswari Dayalwar.
